FRIDAY MORNING, SEPTEMBER 1, 1916

We must ever remember that there cannot be preparedness in things material unless there is also that preparedness of soul and spirit which alone renders a nation fit to perform its high and difficult duties in national and international life.

Theodore Roosevelt.

War and the Majority

We believe in the rule of the majority ordinarily, but there are emergencies when organized, expert opinion should prevail. For instance in all matters pertaining to warfare such as the selection of officers. The other day one company of the New Jersey national guard rose in revolt at Douglas, because an attempt was being made to coerce it into the election of a captain, when the majority of the company wanted another captain. We do not suppose that such a military incident could occur anywhere else on earth outside the United States. It was a further disclosure of the weakness of the national guard system. Army officers should not be chosen for their popularity, for the man best fitted may be very unpopular person, undiplomatic, without any of the qualities of the politician. For instance, the great Kitchener; if he had had to depend for military preference upon those qualities which attract votes, he could not have been elected corporal.

Such men, though, as Kitchener, Grant, Sherman and others habitually taciturn and cold eventually attain such a degree of success that they become the idols of soldiers. Now and then personal popularity goes with great military ability as in the case of General Robert E. Lee and "Our Bobs." But that is a rather rare combination.

All matters of war should be removed as far as possible from popular expression which can produce only a conflict of views and finally, confusion. Then is a time when the hoarse voice of the people is not to be heard, for it is not a fact then that in multiplicity of counsel is wisdom. The war must be prepared for and conducted by machinery, already set up and oiled and ready to be started.

Where there are people we always have politics and politics and war do not go well together as Great Britain has learned in the last two years.

A Desperate Game

There is still a hope, but a slender one that the railway strike may be avoided. That hope lies in a recognition by the brotherhood leaders of the desperation of the game in which they are threatening to sit. They cannot be sure that the strike order will be so generally obeyed as to offer a fighting chance of success. It is evident now to all employees that the roads will not yield to anything short of arbitration. The most unfavorable result that could follow the strike is the unlikely one of government ownership which we believe the brotherhood leaders and a majority of the membership do not want, and which probably a majority of the bond holders would prefer.

If the strike should fail, the power of the brotherhoods would be so broken that it could not be repaired in a generation. The status of every striking employee would be changed with respect to seniority and pension. There is too much at risk.

A strike, to succeed, must be backed by public opinion and even when public opinion has been behind strikes they have not always succeeded. In this case the strike would not have the support of public opinion which was sacrificed when the leaders repudiated the principle of arbitration. At the beginning of the White House negotiations the president recklessly declared that if the roads refused to grant the eight hour day, the responsibility for the strike would rest on them. The president has not since repeated that utterance and no doubt he has often wished that he might recall it. The roads sticking to the principle of arbitration will be absolved by the public of any responsibility for what may occur.

Nomination of Governor Johnson

That Governor Johnson would receive the republican nomination for the California United States senatorship was the impression brought back by a majority of Arizonians who had visited the coast. Even in the southern cities where his opponent, Booth's greatest strength lay it was evident that there was a strong Johnson sentiment. Of the result in the northern part of the state there could be no uncertainty.

That he will be elected more easily than he was nominated there is little doubt. While he has bitter enemies in the republican party, among the republican leaders is admitted but it is unlikely that they will continue their fight against him. It would be a hopeless as well as a suicidal fight, for no Californian has ever had such a hold upon the masses as Governor Johnson.

His republicanism cannot be successfully disputed, for he had aligned himself immediately after the Chicago conventions with national republicans in support of Mr. Hughes. That kind of republicanism is good enough for the people of California any other state, and is the only kind of republicanism that will be recognized this year.

Strikes and Administrations

It may be that it is a coincidence, but it is a fact that every great railroad strike has occurred in a democratic national administration, and assuming that we are to have a strike now, in every national democratic administration since the civil war there has been a great railroad strike. There was one in 1887 in the first Cleveland administration and another in 1894 in Cleveland's second administration. There have been it is true railroad strikes in republican administrations as in 1874, but they have affected only small sections of the country and have quickly ended. We do not attempt to trace any relation between railroad strikes and democratic administrations. We are merely dealing with railway strikes and democratic administrations as co-incidences which are said to occupy a mid-position between accidents and habits.

Harvey for Hughes

Colonel Harvey has the right to pose as the original Wilson man, if he chooses to do so. He began booming Mr. Wilson for president as long ago as the campaign of 1908. It was through his efforts more than those of any other man, that Mr. Wilson was elected governor of New Jersey, and it was through his efforts that Mr. Wilson came to be looked upon as the strongest man for the presidential nomination of 1912. Mr. Wilson rewarded him by giving out a letter a short time before the national convention met in Baltimore declaring that he found the support of Colonel Harvey "embarrassing."

There has been no more conspicuous example of political ingratitude in recent years. Colonel Harvey withdrew from all participation in the campaign, though he nominally supported the democratic ticket. This year, according to an interesting report published in the New York Tribune, he will come out strongly for Hughes for president. His course is dictated not so much by resentment over the shabby manner in which he was treated in 1912 as by disgust with the president's meekness in the face of German provocation and his complete failure to protect American lives and interests in Mexico.

The Fall of Calhoun

The announcement that Patrick Calhoun, of San Francisco, a grandson of the famous southern statesman, has been separated from a fortune of $14,000,000 in the short space of five years, and now finds himself in the bankruptcy court with tangible assets of only $5, illustrates graphically the rapidity with which fortunes are made, and also lost, in these days of high-flying finance.

Calhoun is quoted as ascribing his financial wreck to losses sustained in the great San Francisco earthquake and fire, but there were apparently other causes of a contributory nature. As a lawyer he was prominently identified with the San Francisco street car riots of a decade ago, and his name was brought out unfavorably in later investigations of corruption in San Francisco. His large fortune was made quickly but some of his methods, rightly or otherwise, were severely criticized and his fall was more rapid than his rise.

EVEN THE ANIMALS

In a shop recently, a well known actress, who is noted for her personal youth, asked for a traveling-bag of alligator skin. The shopkeeper, who had none of that particular sort, brought out instead some of smooth leather. "And you tell me this is alligator skin!" objected the actress. "Why, where are all its wrinkles?"

"Ah, madam," replied the wily dealer, who knew his customer, "wrinkles are out of vogue. The correct alligator bag is made from the skin of an alligator that has been massaged."—Christian Register.

CONVERSATIONAL DIPLOMACY

"Who is your favorite composer?"
"Wagner," replied Mr. Cumrox.
"You must be a student of music!"
"No, I mention Wagner for the ease of relieving myself of conversational strain. If the other man doesn't like Wagner, he won't want to hear me say another word."
"And if he does?"
"He'll want to do all the talking himself."—Washington Star.

TRUE CANDOR

"Am I good enough for you?" sighed the fond lover.
"No," said the girl candidly, "you're not, but you are too good for any other girl."—New York Times.

HE QUALIFIED

"My daughter," said the father, "has always been accustomed to all the luxuries of wealth."
"Ye-es," replied the count, bristling up. "Zat ees what I am."—Christian Register.

GENERAL MURRAY SAVES SUEZ CANAL

General Sir Archibald Murray.

Lieutenant Sir Archibald James Murray, commander of the British troops in Egypt, whose troops defeated the Turkish army at Romani, reports that British troops have inflicted severe losses upon the Turks, and that the attempt to reach the Suez Canal has been frustrated. The Katia Basin district in which the fighting takes place is in a blazing desert district, and is about thirty miles from the Suez Canal.

BAILY AT HOME.

T. A. Baily of the Arizona Eastern, and his family, are again at home on West Eighth street, after a five weeks' vacation at the former home in the state of Washington. It was a visit well worth while and Mr. Baily succeeded in finding many changes that had occurred since he left there five years ago.

MOORE DROPS IN.

Harlan Moore, visitor here in the winter and spring of 1914, came into the valley over the Espee Wednesday and is spending a week at the A. H. Bell home on Farmer avenue. Moore made a host of friends here on his initial visit and the glad hand is welcoming him at every turn. He has recently visited on the coast and plans to leave the fore part of next week, continuing on to El Paso, various points in Texas, and eventually to his home in Indiana.

FURNISHED ROOMS for rent. 218 E. Eighth street, Tempe.

JOYCE AUTOING.

Fred J. Joyce of the Mutual Life, came in night before last from the mining camp east of here and pulled out yesterday afternoon by automobile for Prescott. He plans to spend a month in and about the Mile High City.

RETURNS TO HOME.

Mrs. M. T. McFarland departed yesterday for her home at Animas, New Mexico, after a pleasant visit in Tempe with her daughter, Mrs. G. R. Finch.

JAY UP AND AROUND.

For the first time since he sustained serious injuries in a motorcycle accident on the state highway here last February, C. W. Joyox was on the street in Tempe again yesterday. He resorts to the crutches in getting about, but finds that a happy medium after the months that were spent in bed. The one leg that was hurt in the accident, is still stiff and hampers him in travel, but it is thought that the member will fully recover in time.

THE BLACK LIST.

The daring drama of social conditions, "The Black List," by the two distinguished American dramatists, Marion Fairfax and Wm. C. De Mille, will be seen at the Airdome tonight, with the beautiful Jesse L. Lasky, star; Blanche Sweet, in the role of Vera Maroff, the daughter of a Russian anarchist working in American coal mines. This drama is said to be the most daring indictment of labor conditions as they exist in certain mining states ever written by an American. "Beauty in Distress," a comedy, is also on the program.

COYKENDALLS RETURN.
Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Coykendall, visitors in Tempe last winter, came in yesterday.

Mesa News Notes

MESA PREPARED TO MEET STRIKE

The subject of conversation on the streets of Mesa is the possibility of the great railroad strike and its effect on conditions generally. Local merchants have been doing their best to cover since the negotiations first indicated the likelihood of a strike, and it is possible that car lot shipments of sugar and potatoes may reach Mesa before Monday morning. In the general line of provisions there seems to be no probability of scarcity unless there should be a tie up of long duration.

terday morning from San Diego, where they passed the summer. They like it in San Diego and they like it in Tempe, their winter home still remaining a choice between the two places.

DOWN FROM PRESCOTT.
Miss Daisy Buck returned to Tempe night before last, after a stay of two months at Prescott. She is engaged to teach in the Mesa schools this term.

ON THE JOB AGAIN.
Frank E. Empey returned to his position as chief clerk at Birchett Brothers' grocery yesterday morning after a two weeks' vacation at Los Angeles and the coast resorts.

MACCABEES' ELECTION.
After a summer of new and interesting sessions, the Maccabees are planning to get an early start on the season's work and will have a big time at the meeting next Tuesday afternoon. The election of officers will be a feature.

RETURNING.
Miss Isabel Estrada, daughter of Constable R. C. Estrada, returned to Tempe yesterday morning after a summer vacation at Los Angeles.

VACATION OVER.
Miss Marie Bauer, who had been spending the month at Prescott returned to her home in Tempe night before last.

VISITORS HERE.
Carl Carlson and children are visiting relatives in Tempe for a short while from their home at Bisbee.

CARD OF THANKS
We wish to express our most heartfelt thanks to our many friends who so kindly extended their sympathy and services in our hour of bereavement.

tion. There seems to be plenty of such articles as flour, coffee and other staples, the greatest scarcity being sugar. Local merchants have let their stock run low because of the falling market. One firm has 600 sacks en route and hopes to have it within auto truck distance of Mesa by the time any strike order takes effect. Johnson Peace and company produce merchants have a car of spuds in and another ordered which, may or may not reach Mesa by labor day. Unless a car of flour should come in, the bakers who use a good deal of the imported article will run short in two or three weeks. As a local supply, the Mesa Milling company has been shipping out a number of cars lately and one will go out today, but the company has an abundance of wheat on hand and is running full time turning out an excellent quality of flour. There are 90,000 gallons of gasoline stored here. Salt River valley people even the confirmed pessimists are congratulating themselves that they live in a section where flour and milk and eggs and beef and honey and hogs and chicken pile grow in abundance.

AGENT STEWART ON DUTY.
L. H. Stewart, agent of the Arizona Eastern, is back at work after a visit since August 4 at Santa Monica. The family have spent the summer there and returned with him.

PHOENIX VISITORS
Rev. Bloy, Paul Beville and E. R. Bryan were visitors yesterday in the capital city.

ON AGAIN OFF AGAIN.
Zeb Pearce of the Johnson Peace company, with his family has returned from a vacation spent at Clover Springs and the Natural Bridge. They report a pleasant time, camping wherever fancy dictated. Charley Johnson of the same firm leaves today with his family on a vacation trip to be spent in the same locality.

COMPLIMENTARY
Mr. Fisher, who has had the contract for making the sewer connections for the city of Mesa, did a great deal of work for individuals and was heard to pay this high tribute to Mesa citizenship, viz., that the promptness with which those with whom he dealt, met their obligation was very pleasant, and that he considered Mesa folks A-1 as to credit.

ON THE LIST
The Commercial club has enrolled this week, the name of W. J. Simpson as a member. Mr. Simpson is a member of McFadden Bros. cotton dealers and shows no hesitancy in declaring that in Salt River valley, where he is a member, he is a producer of long staple cotton.

COOKED FOOD SALE
The Alma Ward Primary association will hold an all day sale Saturday of ready made clothing and cooked food, in the building on West Main formerly occupied by Johnson and Pearce. Those who have made contributions are requested to have the donated clothing ready by Friday afternoon, when committees will call for it.

TONIGHT AT MAJESTIC
The five reel feature will be "The Supreme Test," a Broadway production. The sixth episode of the wonderfully popular play "Peg O' the Ring" will be shown.

Mrs. Glenn Stapley and children are home from a summer spent at Prescott.
Mrs. H. A. Davis, who has been visiting the George McDonald family at Phoenix for two weeks, has returned.
C. P. Hill and family have returned from an outing pleasantly spent in the White Mountains.

PLEADS GUILTY AND CLEARS HIS PARTNER

Carlos Aguirre, charged with the burglary of a house on East Madison street and the theft of about $100 and some clothing, was arraigned before Justice Parker yesterday. He admitted his guilt and was held to the superior court. He said, though, that Jose Lopez, who had been arrested with him, had nothing to do with the crime and was not present when it was committed. That statement was enthusiastically corroborated by Senor Lopez. The latter was discharged. It is the opinion of officials that Lopez was really innocent though they were not led to the conclusion by the statement of Aguirre and the corroboration of it by Lopez. It frequently, in fact, generally, happens that when two or more Mexicans are arrested together and when the proof of their guilt is wholly circumstantial, they agree among themselves as to who shall bear the brunt of the accusation. That is generally settled by lot in the jail. They draw straws and the one who gets the "short end" assumes the character of the goat. They reason, that there is no sense in the whole race doing time when the offense can be explained by one man.

OPEN ON SATURDAYS—Beginning next Saturday the local lumber yards will be kept open in the afternoons until next summer. However, they will be closed all Labor day.

SWIM AT RIVERSIDE—Adv. It

THE BIG STRIKE

Will not be on the railroads but at the famous Glory Hole Mine, where we have just struck the first reliable indications that we are on the real road to success and the opening up of bodies of High Grade 1000-a-pound Gold Ore, such as we first had in the little 12-foot pit, where about $60,000 in ore almost half gold was taken out in less than a week. We have just started in to develop this famous property, which has lain idle almost since discovery—and WE ARE ON THE RIGHT TRACK. We are now getting ore horning and assaying from a trace to almost a thousand dollars a ton and we are following this up in two places and WE ARE GOING TO GET THE HIGH GRADE.

A famous engineer and geologist, representing one of the largest mining companies in the world, and the most successful, examined the property for his own personal information this week, because the property is not for sale to anyone at any price, and after spending the day looking it over said: "YOU HAVE GOT A MINE HERE, THE BEST AND BIGGEST EXAMPLE OF AN ANTICLINAL SADDLE REEF ENRICHMENT I HAVE SEEN IN AMERICA, WITH THE EXCEPTION OF THE FAMOUS TOMBS STONE MINES. THE GLORY HOLE IS SIMILAR IN CHARACTER AND GEOLOGY TO THE WORLD-FAMOUS BENDIGO MINES IN AUSTRALIA, WHICH HAVE PRODUCED MILLIONS IN HIGH GRADE GOLD ORE. YOU ARE STARTING IN IN THE RIGHT PLACES AND IF YOU FOLLOW THE ANTICLINES WHERE YOU NOW ARE YOU WILL GET THE GOLD AGAIN. NATURE NEVER MAKES FREAKS AND THE GLORY HOLE IS A WELL DEFINED ANTICLINAL ENRICHMENT WHICH WILL MAKE A MINE WITH PROPER DEVELOPMENT." This man's opinion is taken by men who have made millions in mining. His statement only confirms what I have always believed and have often stated.

MEN WANTED

I want a few good men who have a little red blood in their veins and who are not afraid to take a chance where the investment of a small amount may mean a fortune. Ladies are not barred if they have the nerve and the money to back up their nerve. We are going ahead with the development of the famous Glory Hole as fast as the money is available to pay for the work. We want to push the work as fast as possible and GET THE GOLD. The Glory Hole Bonanza Mines Co. has been organized and has bought out the Glory Hole Mine and OWNS IT ALL PAID FOR, not any lease or bond but PAID FOR IN FULL, and every share of stock represents its pro rata interest in the property and all the assets of the company and will receive its honest and proportionate share of every dollar's profit made on every pound of ore produced. The total capital of the Company is ONLY $150,000 and half of it has been placed in the Treasury for future needs. Those who get in at the start and help develop this famous property are entitled to the big profits and I am offering the first issue of stock for sale for only 10c a share, full paid and non-assessable. I could just as well ask a dollar a share and you would even then be getting better value than you do in many mining stocks. If we strike the high grade ore again, as we are apt to any day, a thousand shares or more bought now will make you a fortune. Consolidated Virginia, bought for 17c a share, sold as high as $600 a share when they struck their bonanza ore body 1,000 shares of Glory Hole, bought today, will cost you only $100; 5,000 shares $500; 500 shares $50. Figure for yourself what you will make if Glory Hole goes to $10 a share or more as it may easily do. Send in your order TODAY if you want to be sure of getting it at 10c, or send for illustrated folder. A LITTLE MONEY INVESTED NOW MAY MEAN A FORTUNE BEFORE SPRING. HAVE YOU GOT THE NERVE TO TAKE THE CHANCE?

Yours for Gold Out of the Ground,
